WASHINGTON

Proceedings in Both Houses of Congress.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—About twenty republican senators met in caucus this morning. Senator Edmunds submitted a resolution from the judiciary committee embodying the views of the republican members respecting the rights of the senate to information from the heads of executive departments, and it was decided it shall be offered in open session of the senate.

The resolutions are three in number. The first resolution declares the action of the attorney general in refusing to give information when called for by the senate, no matter what his motive, was reprehensible. The second declares that where the senate has called upon heads of departments for information regarding removals from office and information is not furnished as requested, the senate will not confirm appointees. The third condemns the disregard to the law which requires that in selections for office preference be given to honorably discharged union soldiers and sailors.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate: James B. Groome, collector of customs for the district of Baltimore; Frank Phelps, surveyor of customs at Port LaCrosse, Wisconsin; Alfred B. Judd, pension agent at Milwaukee; Pendleton King, of North Carolina, secretary of the legation at Constantinople.

Among the bills introduced in the senate was one by Mr. Morrill, in aid of education in the states, which was laid on the table at his request.

Senator Hoar introduced a bill providing for the erection of a suitable monument at Washington to Gen. Grant. The bill appropriates $150,000, and provides for a commission of three senators and three members of the house, to contract for the monument. Senator Logan suggested that the amount be increased to $250,000. By unanimous consent Hoar increased the amount accordingly, and the bill was referred to the committee on library.

HOUSE.

Jones, of Texas, reported a bill granting franking privilege to Julia D. Grant. Calendar.

Murphy reported a bill providing for the acceptance by the United States of the proposed grant of the Illinois and Michigan canal for the construction of the Illinois and Mississippi river canal. Calendar.

The house passed a bill to make allowance for clerk hire to postmasters at first and second class post offices to cover the cost of clerical labor in the money order business, also a bill reducing from eight to five cents the charge for money orders not exceeding five dollars.

The house then went into committee of the whole with Springer in the chair, on the Fitz John Porter bill.

The coinage committee voted seven to six the proposition to report adversely a bill to suspend the coinage of silver.

The sub-committee of the house committee on postoffices and post roads, having charge of the postal telegraph question, have agreed to report adversely to the full committee on all appropriations for building telegraph lines by the government.

The house committee on banking and currency agreed to favorably report on the bill limiting the capital stock of national banks to $5,000,000.

Seth C. Harrigan, a son of ex-Senator Harrigan, of Indiana, and one of the door-keepers of the house of representatives, assaulted Representative Cobb, of Indiana, with a club, at the National hotel yesterday morning. Friends intervened, and prevented him from doing mischief. Later in the day Cobb armed himself, and says he will shoot.

Will Hold Another.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL. CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—The national committee of the Postmasters' Association has decided to hold the next national convention here on the second Wednesday in June, 1886.

Still Critical.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—John B. Gough is still in an extremely critical condition. He was conscious this morning, but had not regained power of speech.

STRUGGLES OF TALENT.

How it Lives, Laments and Suffers in New York--The Vast Army that Talent Drags in Its Train.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—New York is infested with talent. It lurks on every corner, dwells in garrets near the sky, and touches elbows with one constantly, indoors and out. It isn't always prosperous talent. Much of it is in its incipency, some in its decline, and nearly all in the struggling stage.

Talent is an admirable possession, but it has a way of talking about itself that rather wears upon one. The more undeveloped it is the more does it expend itself in words. In the struggling stage it wears every body with its wailings and lamentations, and alas! strugglers are all too plenty here. They come from every village, town, hillside and plain to find an outlet for their talent, to try their wings. Frequently they cherish the belief that there isn't much else in life worth paying attention to but their talent. The dismal experience of finding an opportunity, an opening, even a foothold, involves an exercise of all the qualities that belong to heroes. Courage, patience, perseverance, self-confidence and eternal vigilance must prop up the greatest talent ever bestowed upon mortals if it achieves anything.

Heaven help the talented strugglers in New York, for they fight with the dragon of adversity hand to hand; they earn success a thousand times though they may never reach it. They pay for every foot of ground gained with their heart's best blood. Truly, heaven does help them often. There is no other way of accounting for their miraculous extrication from desperate straits sometimes.

The strugglers are creatures of a single idea. One thought consumes them, and that is how to advance themselves in their profession, whatever it may be. The worst of it is they refuse to understand that others are not equally interested in their hopes and fears.

To be sure they rarely reach the dizzy heights they set out for, but they accumulate a stock of wisdom by no means to be despised. They adopt a definition for the word "success" quite different from the one that dazed them before, they tried their wings. A famous editor said to me once, "I consider any one's life a success who has kept out of the poorhouse." The talented strugglers agree to this after they have once "mixed with action." Experience teaches them humility. Nothing else can. To be sure they never persuade themselves that they were intended for the paths of mediocrity, but they decide to walk in said paths uncomplainingly, and even gratefully.

It's pitiful, too, to see them yield to the inevitable, one by one, falling far short of their dreams, yet heroically setting their faces to the blast and pushing on to the end. Queer comeliness this thing we call success. It has a way of coming to loiterers and dodging workers that is perfectly incomprehensible. A writer of much ability and great industry said recently: "I began a literary life desiring to reach the heights; but here I am, 60, and still in the valley."

Here is the young lady who is ready to be launched in the musical world. The seal of some renowned Italian teacher's approval has been set upon her. She comes to New York, the Mecca of the aspiring, brimful of pride and confidence, to seek an engagement. The foot of the ladder is not for her. Oh, no! Nobody dare to hint about climbing in her presence. She has any amount of courage until managers hear it away with brutal rebuffs.

She sings for managers again and again and hears nothing from them, in spite of all their promises and praises. Anxiety eats her heart out, and she decides to devour her purse. The story of her struggles is told over and over to her friends till their minds are saturated with her burdens and yearnings. They worry over her, push her, induce her to pause, and finally carry her. But time flies and she accomplishes nothing. At last she reaches the end of her financial string, and then either begins at the despised root of the ladder and climbs slowly to the middle, possibly to the top, or possibly goes back to her home in the provinces a disappointed and embittered woman, who will be a stranger to every form of happiness during the remainder of her life.

This luckless person frequently owes her failure to too much praise before she has really accomplished anything. Well-meaning, but injudicious friends give her such a flattering opinion of herself that she scorns the aid of small beginnings, wants to jump immediately to the top, can't do it, and so misses her opportunities and sinks into permanent obscurity. A famous woman said in my presence: "I regard Theodore Tilton and Anne Dickinson as the two most conspicuous examples of the evil results of too much praise at the outset of one's career. Nothing makes men or women so vain as being praised on their feet in public work as a few knock downs as first, with the privilege of getting up without help. It keeps them humble."

The musical student not yet ready to launch is another struggler. She is here, in great numbers, and talent wearing shabby gowns and invalid shoes, and literally living on a crust in fireless rooms. Her money goes for lessons, and she practices herself and her neighbors fairly into the grave. Sometimes her courage vanishes; she weeps and moans at the hardness of her fate, the hopelessness of her immediate future. All these groans from the valley of despair come only momentary relief for the talented struggler. The tales of cruelty and brutality some of the women strugglers tell would deter any save the most courageous from putting themselves in the way of similar experiences. One persevering girl gave up the struggle after two years of futile struggle in a humble way. "Oh, should be a horse, not a woman," she said, "to go through the gateways of the theatrical profession. I am not a horse. I cannot endure what it puts upon me. So I give it up."

Some of these impoverished choristers of talent crawl to a respectable place in their profession, a point where they can earn a decent livelihood. Even then they are sure of nothing. Some perish. A few, a very few, reach the top. Others, discouraged, drop into various little snares by the way, such as disastrous marriages or crazy enterprises that come to grief. Still others yield to the inevitable pressure of poverty and all the demons that beset the striving and go down, down into dark days of doom.

Writing talent does its full share of struggling also. Unhappily, with a few exceptions, it never gets out of its struggles till the pale horseman releases it. Set it down to its credit, however, that it takes less about itself and its aspirations than dramatic talent. The people of the pen are every last word, not talk, is the thing. Indeed, penasters are prone to much too much vacillating to their own glorification, but professional writers are too busy to prate much about their baffled hopes. It takes the undugged soakers to do that thoroughly.

The Eulogians of the pen wax communicative at times, and pose pathetically as specimens of thwarted genius. What looks, according to their own showing, they could have written if perverse fate hadn't kept their noses to the grindstone! How they curse the newspaper hawk work, which is at once their support and blessing! How scornfully they speak of the best things they can produce as "wet boilers" and "infantile" that if the pot would only boil itself their genius would give the world just such a shaking up as it needs!

INDIANA.

And the Occurrences of Note in the State.

The Methodist ministers of Indianapolis have condemned progressive eunuchs.

An Indianapolis correspondent nominates ex-Governor Porter for the presidency.

Michigan City is entertaining an idea of adopting the electric light for street purposes.

Revival meetings are reported in all parts of the state, which result in many conversions.

The Wabash county bank, at Wabash, has increased its capital stock from $60,000 to $75,000.

Attorney-general Hord arrived in New York yesterday. His health is considerably improved.

Jap Turpen, the correspondent, has at last been rewarded with a messengership in the treasury department at Washington.

The Indianapolis city council agrees to take $68,000 and call the account of the defaulting city treasurer, Pattison, square.

Senator Voorhees has introduced in the senate a petition from the Knights of Labor, of Goshen, asking that Chinese immigration be prohibited.

When a street railway franchise was granted by the common council of Elkhart, the Knights of Labor secured the insertion of a clause that the wages and hours of labor are to be settled by arbitration.

Secretary Metcalf, of the state board of health, is in receipt of letters from local health officers from all over the state, indicating a large attendance at the sanitary conference to be held at Indianapolis to-morrow.

A child having no eyes was born to a young married couple living near Remington, Ind., last week. The eyelids are as perfect as any child's, but back of them are no eye balls. Otherwise the child is normal. It is their first child.

Herman Hulman, the Terre Haute millionaire who bought St. Anthony's hospital, costing about $50,000, and presented it to the sisters of St. Francis, has been brought home from Florida, where his right leg was broken between the knee and hip by being struck by an overhanging limb while traveling on a steamer on St. John's river.

Fire at Oakland City, Gibson county, destroyed the square on the east side of Main street. The losses included James G. Bell, hardware, $1,800; insured for $800; N. B. Wilson, furniture, $4,000; insured for $1,200; Levy & Harbaugh, dry goods, stock valued at $18,000, partially destroyed; insurance, $4,000; Philip Cole, store house, $2,500; insured for $1,200.

A CORRESPONDENT writes from Mandalay just after the deposition of Thebaw: "Next morning I obtained admission to the palace, and for several hours wended my way through the endless succession of buildings. It is impossible to attempt here any detailed description of the mingled magnificence and squalor, filth and splendor which I witnessed. I found myself in the Lord White Elephant's house. He had been left without food or water. The magnificent silver vessels which held his food had been lying about unprotected. The royal monster seemed in a very bad temper (no wonder). He was chained by the fore feet to massive pillars. Unless you were told that he was white you would not perceive it. In the dusky light he seemed much like any other elephant. On closer examination he seemed of light mouse-color, with large white blotches." The same correspondent describes a most disgraceful scene of plunder. The crown jewels narrowly escaped.

HON. WILLIAM WALTER PHELPS is one of the best speakers in Congress. He invariably commands earnest attention when he speaks.

That fat man, who the ladies declare is the handsomest man in Washington, used to be an invalid, but he took to hard drinking, not of whiskey, but of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and now he walks right over the very slenderest dudes and don't care at all.

REVOLT!

Again Disturbs the Peace of Uruguay.

The Trouble Growing and Fears are Expressed that the Government is Weak.

Mrs. Hendricks is Annoyed by Medisms and Cranks, but Pays no Attention to Them.

A REVOLUTION

In Progress in the Argentine Confederation.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

BURNOS AYRES, Feb. 17.—A revolution is in progress in Uruguay. The commotion is not very great, but if not quickly suppressed the government will be too weak to resist it effectually. The revolutionists have gained influence over some of the regiments of Line.

A CENTENARIAN

Frozen to Death in Pennsylvania.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

READING, Pa., Feb. 17.—Thomas M. Jackson, colored, who was found in his hut badly frozen, died at the county hospital yesterday. There is no doubt of evidence that Jackson was one hundred and four years old, and that over seventy years ago he was in the employ of Gen. Jackson, on his plantation in Tennessee.

The Missouri Submissionists.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

SIDALIA, Mo., Feb. 17.—The State Submissionists' convention adopted resolutions yesterday demanding of the next legislature the submission to the people, at the next election, an amendment to the constitution, forever prohibiting the manufacture for sale, or giving away of all intoxicating liquors as beverages, including wine and beer. Also the passage of a local option law, until such time as prohibition may be adopted.

Prominent People at Seymour's Funeral.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Among the persons of prominence present at the funeral of ex-Governor Horatio Seymour, yesterday, were Governor Hill, ex-Senator Conkling, the state officers and delegates from congress and the state legislature. After services at the church a memorial service was held in the opera house. Addresses were delivered by Mayor Kinney and Governor Hill.

She Does Right.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 17.—A gentleman who called on Mrs. Hendricks says she has received many letters from persons proposing to communicate for her with her dead husband. One sent a poem said to be dictated by him; another a letter resembling his style and handwriting. Mrs. Hendricks has given these persons no attention.

Imprisoned for Contempt.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—George Middleton was sent to the county jail this morning for failing to comply with an order of the county court directing him to contribute $25 a week for the support of his wife, who is seeking maintenance. Middleton is one of the managers of the dime museum and reported to be wealthy.

Want Arbitration.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 17.—At a conference of the business men of Richmond with the Knights of Labor and the Typographical union, held last night, a resolution was adopted to endeavor to have an act passed by the general assembly to require all differences between employees and employers submitted to arbitration.

A Reverend Gentleman Suicides.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 17.—The body of Rev. Jesse B. Braly, of Norton Valley, was found encased in the ice in the river at Carondelet, yesterday. Letters show he committed suicide from fear of an investigation of his conduct.

Murdered with a Hoe.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

BELLAIRE, Mich., Feb. 17.—The body of Peter Higgins, of Audrain county, was found under a pile of manure, with ten deep gashes in his head, made with a hoe. His brother George has been arrested for the crime.

Mutiny on Board Ship.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—A mutiny broke out on board the training ship Arcturion in the Thames of Greenhite. A detachment of police was sent on board.

Count de Lesseps.

By Cable, via Galveston. PANAMA, Feb. 17.—Count de Lesseps arrived at Colon this morning.

Watterson Better.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 17.—Watterson's condition is much improved. He rested well, and talked cheerfully this morning.

The new repeating rifle with which the Austro-Hungarian infantry is to be armed has been tested during the last three months by five battalions, and found to be excellent in every way, and altogether superior to the French repeating rifle. The chief point seems to be the wonderfully simple manner in which, by means of spiral springs, the cartridges are pushed forward and the empty cases thrown out. One pressure on the crank places five cartridges ready for firing, and another turn ejects five empty cartridge cases, five fresh cartridges being simultaneously placed in the magazine. So far, it is clear that the problem has been solved, and that a serviceable weapon has been secured by which the men can fire with marvelous rapidity. Experienced officers, however, still have their doubts about the advantages of the new arm, remembering the paradox of the famous German military writer, Von der Goltz, that in the next war the army that will be beaten will be that which can fire the quickest. The new rifle may prove all that is expected in the hands of Austro-German mountaineers, who know how to handle firearms, but it will greatly increase the tendency of all members of vivacious nations to squander their ammunition, as the French infantry did in 1870, and as the Servians did in the late war.

CAWKE'S (Milwaukee) Directory of American Millers gives the total number of mills in the United States and Canada as 18,169, being 6,823 less than a year ago. A numerical loss is reported for every State, Territory, and Province, with the exception of Dakota, Nevada, and the District of Columbia. The gross capacity of the mills shows a slight increase, this resulting from the fact that a great number of the smaller mills have gone to the wall or been consolidated with the larger companies formed for milling purposes.

DELEGATE CAINE, of Utah, is one of the striking figures of this Congress. He is a slender, clean-cut fellow of about forty-five. He is straight and well made, has an open face, cold, blue eyes, and a pair of brown side whiskers, which might be those of a Wall street broker. He is a pleasant man to talk to, and is not averse to speaking upon all subjects connected with Mormonism. His wife, who is related to Florence Nightingale, is at Washington with him.

MR. RUSKIN has offered a suggestion for the solution of the Irish question which is certainly unique. He says that the peculiarities of the Irish race should be taken into consideration in governing. First, they are an artistic people, and can design beautiful things and execute them with indefatigable industry; secondly, they are a witty people, and can by no means be governed by witless ones; thirdly, they are an affectionate people, and can by no means be governed on scientific principles by heartless persons.

"THE CLAIMANT" has just delivered a lecture in Dublin. He drew an immense audience, who hailed him as he came on with cries of "Hailo, Roger!" and "Wagga-Wagga!" All the other performers with him were hissed off. "Sir Roger" was in evening dress, and is described as tall of stature, portly in build, of dark complexion, and as solemn as a professional undertaker in appearance. His powers of oratory are not good, his voice is bad, and his twenty minutes address was of the plainest character.

A WRITER in the Journal of Medical Science gives the results of a series of experiments to determine the comparative action of coffee and alcohol. He finds that while alcohol increases the production of heat, it really lowers the bodily temperature by virtue of exaggerated radiation. The caffeine in coffee, however, preserves the heat, and thus, if given in conjunction with alcohol, restrains the tendency of the latter to lower the temperature.

A WONDERFUL and little-known flower has been on exhibition at the Philadelphia Horticultural Society's rooms. It is called the moon flower and blooms in the evening. From a small bud an inch and a quarter in diameter comes a beautiful flower four inches in diameter. The development requires less than an hour, and the buds can be seen opening.

AWFUL!

Another Terrible Railroad Accident.

A Passenger Train is Disabled Crossing a Trestle and One Car Falls Over.

One Man is Instantly Killed and Many Others are Badly Cut and Bruised.

ONE MORE!

Is Added to the List of Railroad Wrecks.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., Feb. 17.—A serious accident occurred on the Ohio Central railroad, about ten miles above here yesterday. The train due here at 4:30 p. m., from Charleston, had passed what is known as the ten-mile trestle, when the rear coach jumped the track. Another trestle was reached before the train could be stopped. At this time the hind trucks, next to the rear cars, broke loose, and getting under the front end of the rear coach threw it off into the water.

Samuel Series, of Hurricane Station, Putnam county, W. Va., had gone to the front platform, and when the coach went down he was caught in some way and either drowned or killed.

Ed Schon, of this place, had a leg sprained and bruised, but is doing well. George Brown was cut on the head and face, but not seriously.

Dr. L. F. Roush, of New Haven, W. Va., was lightly cut by jumping through a window.

W. J. Dent, of Parkersburg, was cut in the forehead and his legs were somewhat bruised by the stove falling on him as the car turned over.

PASSENGER AGENTS.

Hold an Interesting Session at Cleveland.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17.—There was a large attendance of general passenger agents at the regular monthly meeting of the central passenger committee here yesterday. Three sessions were held but the business was by no means completed and the committee will assemble again to-day.

The chair car question was taken up upon the report of the committee and led to wide discussion. Mr. R. Eppert, of the Columbus and Cincinnati Midland took a firm stand in opposition to free reclining chairs, introduced by the Pan Handle, and in this was vigorously seconded by Mr. Shottuck, of the Ohio and Mississippi. It was finally decided that the charge for the use of chairs for a distance less than 200 miles be 25 cents; for 200 to 300 miles, 50 cents; from 300 to 400, 75 cents; over 400 miles, $1.00.

from Rheumatism. His physicians feared amputation of the leg was necessary. He tried ATROPHOROS, and in two days was cured.

A professor in a medical college once said to his class "put your hand in a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can bear, and that's rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's neuritis; and gentlemen, the medical profession knows no cure for either." That was before the discovery of ATROPHOROS, which cures both rheumatism and neuritis, and many physicians use it regularly, frankly admitting that they can prescribe nothing else so effective.

Many persons have tried so-called remedies, without benefit, that they have no faith to try more, but it is worth while to try ATROPHOROS. If you have any doubts as to its value write for names of parties in your own State who have been cured by its use.

Ask your druggist for ATROPHOROS. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from our druggist, but if he cannot get it for you we will send it to you something else, but order at once from us as directed.

REMINISCENCES OF FUGITIVE MEN.

BY BEN PERLEY POORE.

William P. Duval, who died at Washington while on a visit, in Gen. Jackson's last administration, was a genuine backwoodsman, who was the original of Washington Irving's "Ralph Ringwood" and James K. Paulding's "Nimrod Wildfire." When a boy he had gone from his native Virginia to Kentucky, where he became one of the hunters who ranged the forests and lived by their rifles. Studying law, he soon acquired a lucrative practice, and was sent to Congress in 1813. Gen. Jackson appointed him Governor of Florida, and while there he exercised great influence over the Seminole chiefs, whose confidence he gained. From Florida he went to Texas, and it was on business connected with the lands in that State that he came to Washington in his 70th year. His genial humor, his fund of anecdotes, and his spotless integrity made him a favorite among young men, who used to fill his room at night, listening to his spirited accounts of the time when he—to use his own words—"could whip his weight in wildcats."

Senator Tom Benton made a great fuss in the winter of 1834, declaring in his pompous way that Gales & Seaton had suppressed some remarks of his about the Bank of the United States, in their last published volume of the "Register of Debates." In the National Intelligencer of the next day, Mr. Gales published a calculation showing that the proportion of the volume, if divided among the forty-eight Senators, would be between twenty-seven and twenty-eight columns to each one. The remarks of Mr. Benton, interspersed through the volume, occupied more than 100 columns, of which more than fifty related to the Bank of the United States, the subject in regard to which the charge of suppression had been made. "Old Bullion," as Mr. Benton was called about the Capitol, never repeated his complaints that his speeches were suppressed by reporters.

Col. John W. Forney was a prominent figure in the Republican party during the first decade of its existence. He was the happy clerk of the Senate, and the unhappy editor of two newspapers, the Chronicle, of Washington, and the Press, of Philadelphia. When in Washington he was constantly writing letters for the Press, and editorials for the Chronicle. When in Philadelphia he wrote editorials for the Press and letters for the Chronicle. Each paper copied his letters from the other. When in New York he wrote editorial letters for his papers alternately, and they were signed "J. W. F." His Washington letters to the Press and his Philadelphia letters to the Chronicle were signed "Occasional," though the most remarkable thing about them was their regularity. Between his two newspapers the Colonel by no means fell to the ground. He balanced himself like Blondin, and could ride two tripods as well as John Robinson rode six horses. There was money in it, too, and the Colonel was rosy with good living, and wore such a dainty smile one could hardly suspect him of ever having done any harm; and he was so perfectly at his ease that he seemed a gentleman of the most elegant leisure, instead of the editor and correspondent-in-chief of two daily newspapers. For a while it was plain sailing, although the Colonel was terribly bothered when there was a row between Stanton and Sherman, but he wrote such handsome things about both belligerents that it was impossible for either to find fault with him. But when Andrew Johnson first quarrelled with the Republican party, he found great trouble in satisfying his friends at the Capitol and at the White House. Finally he deserted the President, who contemptuously alluded to him as a "dead duck" in a public speech. From that day Forney's power began to wane. He sold the Washington Chronicle, which he had established, and then he resigned the secretaryship of the Senate, Congress enacting a bill relieving him from the responsibility of a defalcation by his financial clerk. Some of those whose reputations he had made great, he coldly, and when the Greeley movement was inaugurated he left the Republican party, which he had done so much to build up, and acted with his old Democratic friends.

Washington profited by the inactivity of the Army of the Potomac, the camps of which were the scenes of frequent reviews and inspections. The blockades of the Potomac by the Confederates remained unbroken, except that now and then a saucy little puny, laden with oysters, dashed past the batteries over which the stars and bars floated, and brought her precious bivalves to the city market. Many of the officers' wives were in the city, and uniforms were more plentiful than citizens' attire on the sidewalks of Pennsylvania Avenue and at the hotels. The newcomers in trade were generally Republicans, and outspoken in their attachment for the Union, but the "old residents," as they called themselves, either openly sympathized with the Confederates, or displayed an apathy regarding the progress and the results of the war, mingled with an undercurrent of insincerity, which was exasperating to the soldiers. When Congress met there was a debate in the Senate on the first day of the session, in which

Senator Wilson read a statement, furnished by a detective, on the negroes imprisoned in the jail of the District. There were over sixty, in a filthy condition, without shoes, with insufficient clothing, bedding, or fire, and in a half-starving condition. A majority belonged to rebel masters, from whom they ran away, some because of a threat of being taken to Manassas, some in consequence of ill treatment, some because they would not follow the master to the rebel army; and two or three were free men from Maryland, Minnesota, or Pennsylvania, who accompanied regiments. Several belonged to owners whose political sentiments did not appear. Several were in the employ of the Government at the time of arrest, among them one once belonging to John A. Washington, who declined to go to Manassas to wait upon his master and Col. Lee. One belonged to Toderington, once officer of the Senate, who was a captain in the rebel army, who left his slave there till the end of the war.

A VISIT FROM CAPTAIN KIDD.

Lord John Gardiner one June evening observed a mysterious sloop with six guns riding at anchor off the island. It was Kidd's last vessel, the Antonio. This Lord John was a large, hearty man, who lived generously, was "clever" to the Indians and squaws, and had so much ability in affairs that, although he married four times and spent a great deal of money, he portioned off his daughters handsomely and left a large estate at his death. He was not a person to be scared by a mysterious armed sloop; so, after she had lain in sight two days without making any sign, he put off in a boat, to board her and inquire what she was. As he came up over the side, Captain Kidd—till then unknown to him—received him with the traditional politeness of a thriving desperado, and asked after the health of himself and family. Then, in answer to Lord John's inquiries, he said that he was on his way to Lord Bellomont at Boston; would Gardiner do him the favor to carry two negro boys and one negro girl ashore, to be kept there until he returned or sent an order for them? Gardiner consented, and went back to the island. The next morning Kidd resumed intercourse by sending ashore a request that Gardiner should come on board at once, and bring six sheep with him. This was rather forcing the acquaintance, Gardiner may have thought; but he complied. Thereupon Kidd promptly ripened acquaintance into intimacy, and asked him if he could spare a barrel of cider. Lord John once more proved neighborly, and found that he could spare the cider, sending two of his men ashore to fetch it. While waiting for their return, Kidd got out from his cargo two "pieces" of damaged Bengal muslin—a rare and valued fabric in its pristine state,—which he put into a bag and requested Gardiner to take as a present to his wife. It is likely enough that the captain, seeing in hearty Lord John a capacity for such things, produced some of his fifty-shilling rum, or 300 pound Madeira to be tasted. Something, at any rate, warmed him up to increased generosity, for in about a quarter of an hour he presented the Lord of the Isle with some muslin for his own use. When the men came back with the barrel of cider, he gave them four pieces of gold for their trouble. Furthermore, after getting ready to sail, he offered to pay for the cider; but Gardiner protested that he was sufficiently rewarded by the present to his wife. They parted at last; and Kidd, gallantly firing a salute of four guns, stood for Block Island.

"His purpose in lingering in these waters was to get rid of his suspicious freight before going to Boston. During his stay near the island two New York ships took off part of his cargo; and three days later he returned from Block Island in company with another nefarious sloop, which relieved him of chests containing plate and gold and other goods. This time Kidd again sent for Gardiner and committed to his charge a chest, a box of gold, a bundle of quilts, and four bales of goods. The box of gold, as Gardiner afterwards solemnly deposed, was destined by Kidd for Lord Bellomont. All the treasure and merchandise was buried in some swampy land near Cherry Harbor, beside Home Pond, within a mile of the manor-house, to be kept for Kidd or his order.

"If I call for it and it is gone," Kidd declared to Lord John, "I will take your head or your son's."—George Parsons Lathrop, in the Century.

POISON IN RED STOCKINGS.

Dr. Edson, of the New York Health Department, has had the dye of some bright red stockings, which were made in Saxony, examined, and the analysis discovered that it contained arsenic and antimony. Both poison the skin, and what is known as antimony rash is produced by underclothing the dye of which is fixed with antimony. Children are the worst sufferers from antimony rash, as they are most likely to wear the bright colors which contain the poison.

A CLEVER ANSWER.

"Are you papa's boy?"
"Yes, sir."
"And are you mamma's boy?"
"Yes, sir."
"But how can you be papa's and mamma's at the same time?"
After a pause—"Can't a nice carriage have two horses?"—Hartford Times.

Great Reduction in Prices for 1886.

Goods are so low now that it can hardly be expected that there will be any further decline, so that those laying in full supplies will not likely be disappointed.

Coffee Down 2c, Tea Down 10c, Sugars Down 1-2c, Syrups Down 10c, Turkish Prunes Down 1c.

Best Rio Coffee down to 10c a pound; good Rio coffee down to 8c a pound; best Roasted Rio down to 12c a pound; Government Java, 20c; Roasted Java 25c.

TEAS Reduced in Proportion.

It is no more a luxury to buy Teas. When they were $1 and $2 per pound then of course the consumption of them was small, but now the price is so low that a good Tea can be bought at 20c per pound and then they come within the reach of all.

We are enabled to do so, so low simply in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and buying direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant which is at least 10 to 20 per pound.

Young Hyson, good, 30c; choice, 35c; best 50c; Gunpowder, good, 30c; choice, 40c; best 50c; Oolong or Black Tea, 20c; choice, 30c; best 50c; Japan Tea, uncolored, 35c; choice, 40c; best 50c; English Breakfast, good, 20c; best 50c per pound.

SUGARS—White and Yellow, Down 1-2c.

Cut Leaf Sugar, 7 1/2c per pound; Powdered Sugar, 7 1/2c; Granulated, 7; Coffee A, 8 1/2; Coffee C White, 6c; choice New Orleans Yellow, 5c.

Syrups Reduced 10c a Gal.

Best Golden Drip, 40c per gallon; best Sorghum, 40c per gallon; best New Orleans, Molasses, 30c.

SMOKED MEATS AND PICKLED PORKS.

Best sugar cured hams, 10c per pound; Sugar cured shoulders, 8c per pound; Pickled pork 6c per pound; Breakfast bacon, best, 9c per pound.

SALT AND SMOKED FISH.

White Fish, 4 bbl., $6; White Fish in kits, $1; Family White Fish, kits, 50c; Family White Fish, 4 bbl., $1.25; Mackerel in kits, 60c; good, $1.60; Cat Fish, kits, $1; Cat Fish, 4 bbl., $6; 4 bbl., $5.

Fish Oil, Lard Oil, Neats Foot Oil, Machine Oils and Head Light

Neats Foot Oil, 80c gallon; Fish Oil, 70c gallon; Headlight oil, 12c gallon; machine Oil dark, 30c gallon; Golden machine oil, 30c gallon.

WINES AND LIQUORS.

Old 70 Whisky for medicinal use, $2.50 per gallon; two-year-old, $1.75; one-year-old, $1.40; good new whisky, $1.50 and $1 per gallon; California wine, Muscoted and Angelico, 40c bottle; Port Wine per gallon, $1.25; gallon Catauba wine, $1; gallon Old Tom Gin, 40c; bottle Canada malt, 30c.

Candies Down—Stick and Mixed Reduced 2c per Pound.

Pure Stick Candy, 10c per pound; French Mixed Candy, down to 10c; Bon Bons, 20c; Gum Drops, 10c; Imperials and Chocolate down to 15c per pound.

The Greatest Reduction of all is on Turkish Prunes.

Who ever heard of them selling at 4c per pound. The crop is so large that they don't pay freight and duty to ship to New York. The very best now (fruit 4c per pound); new Valencia Ham, 10c a pound; seedless Sultana Raisins, 25c; best Log Cabin Citron, 30c; new dried apples, 4c per pound; new dried peaches, 6c per pound.

CIGARS, PLUG AND SMOKING TOBACCO.

Bull Dog plug, 50c; Durham plug, 50c; Perfection plug, 35c; Hiawatha plug, 30c; Knights of Labor plug, 30c; Sweet Heart plug, 50c per pound. Fine Cut, 30, 40c, 50, best 50c per pound. Smoking, 10c, 20c, 25c; best Durham, 45c per pound. Choice Cigars, $1.75 per box; good cigars, 60c and $1 per box.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 17, 1886.

THE CITY.

"Heege's Bad Boy" closes to-night. The Olds spoke factory is temporarily closed.

Work on the government building has again ceased.

Mrs. Phil. Singleton, who has been quite sick, is much better.

Mrs. Jennie Totten, of Hoagland, is the guest of Miss Mollie Brown.

Hon. W. H. Dills, of Auburn, is the guest of his brother, Dr. T. J. Dills.

The boys have a gallery of comic valentines at the second ward engine house.

Mr. J. Nickell, of Fort Wayne, was at the Arlington house, Richmond, yesterday.

Ed. Tenney, engineer of the Wabash pay car train, is suffering from congestion of the lungs.

Ellis Seales of this city, went to Huntington this morning. He will remain several days.

Dr. H. S. Myers is the guest of the McKinnis house during the absence of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Myers.

The Fort Wayne millers reduced the price of flour 25 cents per barrel in the past week. It is now worth $4.50.

Taylor Wilson, remembered here as a newspaper solicitor, is again at Warsaw, after a two-years' residence in the east.

Miss Clara Sugarman, of Memphis, Tennessee, is in the city, to attend the marriage of her friend, Miss Emma Falk.

At Cornua the United Brethren church has prohibited its members from joining the G. A. R., as it is styled a secret society.

Congressman Lowry writes here that the bill pensioning Mexican veterans will soon pass the house, probably by the first Monday in March.

A young man named Harry Hamilton, from Altoona, Pa., was taken to the St. Joe hospital yesterday. He is suffering from injuries received by a fall.

Mr. D. F. McCarthy was at Indianapolis yesterday, en route home from the convent near Terre Haute, where his sister, Miss Ella, is enrolled as a novice.

Rev. George P. Slade is holding an interesting meeting in Portland, Ind. Almost a score united during the first week. He will be home the last of this week.

Rev. H. M. Paynter is having a very successful Bible reading service at Warsaw. The Warsaw Times publishes incidents about the great minister from THE SENTINEL.

The Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railroad has forty track-walkers on the first and second divisions. Each man traverses six miles of road bed nightly. They will be retained in service until March 1.

Solomon Derome is very sick at his home, No. 82 Barr street. Mr. Derome suffers from inflammation of the abdominal membrane, a disease he contracted in the army. He asks his comrades to call and see him.

"Charles G. Richardson and Miss Julia Blake, the theatrical people, were in the city yesterday afternoon on their way from Newton to Fort Wayne, where they will join another company," says the Decatur, Ill. Review.

A chimney at the residence of Conrad Piepenbrink, on West Washington street, caught fire yesterday, and caused some commotion in the neighborhood, but it was extinguished before any damage was done. The fire department was not notified.

Last evening, at the Princess rink, no less than three unfortunate roller skaters were compelled to leave the floor on account of demoralized garments. Two gentlemen, in their frantic efforts to outdo the Russian skater, suffered severe breaches, and one young lad, dragged a garment from the floor.

Messrs. John Mohr jr. and P. J. Fallon gave a most delightful progressive euchre party last night. The first favors were costly, and Miss Mamie DeWald and Mr. H. C. Graffe won them. Mrs. Ed J. Golden and Mr. Murray Hartnett divided the small prizes. A nice luncheon was served after the game at the Fox parlors.

Yesterday members of the Huntertown Frie Insurance company met in the superior court room to consider certain proposed changes in the constitution. It was agreed that initiation fees might be made immediately available in the payment of losses. The company is composed of some of the best farmers in the northern part of the county.

The Academy was filled last night, and there was also a very fair attendance at the matinee this afternoon. Upon both occasions "Heege's Bad Boy." There is nothing to add to what has already been said in these columns further than that the situations seem to get firmer each time one witnesses them. There is not a "stick" in the company, but each member is select for the part assigned him. The last presentation will be given this evening.

Pete Tonnellier has sold his Erie variety theatre at Toledo.

Col. R. S. Robertson is sick at his home on West Berry street.

Gathering photographs of dogs and birth cards is the latest craze.

The Fort Wayne Gun club gives a hop at Lindeman's hall Thursday evening.

Mr. A. C. Van Buren, of New York, is lying seriously ill at the Avenue house.

Daniel Tombaugh sues Josiah Tilton for $125. A. H. Bittinger is attorney for the claimant.

James McClean and Sarah R. Drage, Benjamin A. McIntosh and Emma Krick have been licensed to wed.

Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Stemen were at Van Wert, last evening, in attendance at the wedding of friends there.

Tom Griffith, a former Fort Wayne boy, is now general foreman in the Pan Handle shops at Logansport.

"At the Front," a sort of panorama of incidents of the late war, will be an attraction at the Temple next week.

"Strathmore," the famous stallion, was put upon the scales last evening, and "tipped the beam" at 1080 pounds.

Tom Lewis, Wm. Robinson and John Berkey were committed to jail by the mayor, for drunkenness, this morning.

Rev. Father Twigg, the new Catholic priest at Arcola, has recovered a gold watch stolen from him at Delphi a long time ago.

The residence of Frank Groetz, at Kendallville, was burned to the ground last night. The loss is $2,000 with no insurance.

Messrs. Foote & O'Connor have purchased 1,400 chairs for the Princess rink, and can now seat 2,000 people at a moment's notice.

Miss Lucy Crosby died of consumption at the corner of Fairfield avenue and Bass street this morning. She will be buried at township expense.

Charles J. Taylor, of St. Paul, Minn., is in the city visiting his family. Mr. Taylor is an old type and now is engaged in the oyster trade at St. Paul.

Ex-Marshall Kelley goes to Monroeville to-morrow to arrest two men charged with cutting hoop poles on property that does not belong to them.

Many of the railroads in the west are placing chime whistles on their passenger locomotives, so they can be distinguished from the engines on freight trains.

Col. F. E. Boltz, Capt. Scott Swann, J. C. Peltier, Charles Thurman, D. S. Redelsheimer and Crawford Griswold are attending the G. A. R. encampment at Indianapolis.

Benny Rolape, of East Washington street, has entered the employ of Messrs. Wm. & J. J. Geake, the stone cutters, and now handles a chisel like an "old hand at the business."

Mr. Cass Hunter, deputy county treasurer, received notice this morning that he had been awarded a patent on his ingenious "Hunter farm gate." Col. R. S. Robertson is his attorney.

Messdames D. N. Foster, M. M. Beals, M. Brooks, W. N. Barden, J. E. Graham and F. R. Weldon are the delegates from the Sion S. Bass and Anthony Wayne grand army posts to the state encampment of the G. A. R. Woman's relief corps.

The Fort Wayne Electric Light company expect to turn on the light and illuminate the city of Decatur, Illinois, on Saturday evening next. Mr. O. Biernie, who is superintending the work, has a full force of men at work, and his energy in carrying out his contract with that city is highly complimented by the Decatur papers.

The polo game between the Mascottes and the Galesburgs, at Lafayette Monday evening, was won by the former by 3 to 2. Time of game, twenty-three minutes. Kende of the Mascottes won three rushes. The game was the best ever played in Lafayette, and people here can see what a treat is in store for them at the Princess rink to-night.

During 1884 there were only 97 deaths in the Indiana G. A. R. department, but last year 157 were reported, and the death rate will be greater during the coming year. Commander Foster is of the opinion that the membership will hardly exceed twenty thousand in this state, owing to this cause. The G. A. R. is the only secret society which will die with the present generation, unless a change is made, like that of the Loyal Legion, so that the eldest son succeeds to the membership of his sire.

A gentleman who knows Col. Thomas A. Scott intimately, tells the Philadelphia Evening News "that one of Mr. Scott's distinguished traits was his ability to pick up promising young men and develop them into able lieutenants, in the managements of the system of railroads that includes the Pittsburg and Grand Rapids. In this way he picked up Frank Thompson, who is now first vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and Charles E. Pugh, its general manager. Thompson was a gentleman's son who was in the company's shops at Altoona, learning to be a machinist and a railroader. He has made a fine one. Mr. Pugh was a conductor on the road."

Jennie Dixon has not yet been tried for keeping a house of ill-fame.

Hon. Montgomery Hamilton and Col. C. A. Munson are at Indianapolis.

The Galesburg Polo club came in from Logansport this morning, and are being entertained at the Fleming House.

Harry Mayell, long in the service of R. W. Bell, of Buffalo, N. Y., is now traveling for the Summit City Soap company.

Mrs. Emma Malloy is at South Bend, from Brookline, Missouri, called there by the very serious illness of her father, Mr. W. L. Barrett.

Mrs. Aaron and Miss Rose Aaron, mother and sister of Dr. Israel Aaron, are in the city, to attend his marriage to the charming Miss Emma Falk.

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance association, of Perry township, met in the old superior court room yesterday, and listened to good reports from the solid local institution.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Warmer, cloudier weather, local snows, falling barometer.

Mr. W. P. Breen is at home from Indianapolis. The Sentinel says: "W. P. Breen, of Fort Wayne, and J. A. McDonald, of Chicago, well and favorably known in this city, are registered at the Grand."

The people of the "Mixed Pickles" party are all clever, and their absurdity is very funny. Mr. Polk is known to Fort Wayne, and THE SENTINEL can heartily recommend his show as clean and enjoyable.

The supreme court has affirmed the decision of Judge O'Rourke in the case of the state vs. Ben F. Heath. Heath was fined for selling liquor under a license granted one Charles Smith. This is a victory for Prosecutor Dawson.

George Parker and James Edwards, the fellows who stole clothes in the east and south part of town, some weeks ago, were arraigned before Judge O'Rourke to-day. They said guilty and were sentenced to one year each in the prison north and fined $1.

The ladies of the Congregational church have decided to give as their next attraction a concert and "Japanese wedding." They have contracted with foreign parties for costumes and music, and the affair will be given in a manner exceeding anything yet attempted in this city.

The person who neglects to see Mr. J. B. Polk as Joseph Pickles, in Dr. Sayre's latest comical dramatic effusion, "Mixed Pickles," at the Temple to-night, will miss the laugh of the season. The comedy is as full of humor, satire, wit and fun as it is possible to crowd into two and a half hours of play.

The congregation of the Wayne street M. E. church propose to erect a Sunday school addition to their house of worship this year. The structure is to be of unique design, after the style of the famous Akron, Ohio school. Its class rooms will be numerous and its appointments most complete and costly.

The revival at the Baptist church continues with greater interest than ever. There is no prospect of the Gospel meetings closing for some time. Services begin promptly this evening at 7:30 with a praise meeting by the chorus choir. Railroad men, clerks, book keepers and mechanics are especially interested. There will be a great meeting to-night.

A prominent capitalist remarked to THE SENTINEL representative this morning that there is more idle capital in the Fort Wayne banks now than at any time for fifteen years. "This money," said he, "must find its way to usefulness, and in no other channel can it be utilized than in building up the city. I expect to see an unprecedented building season this spring and summer."

"Andrews station did a good business in shipping last week. John Holtdron shipped eight cars of walnut logs to Hoffman Bros., at Fort Wayne; S. Bellman & Son, one car of hogs in care of Lew H. Bellman, to Indianapolis; Jacob R. Hull, one car of hard lumber to H. V. Root, at Fort Wayne; Harry Stell, two cars of baled hay to eastern Pennsylvania; P. H. Willets & Son, 4,000 pounds of feed to Fort Wayne, and Charles McNeen, a half car load of furniture to Roanoke," says a correspondent of the Huntington Herald.

The hospital fund, as managed by the Wabash company, has proved a success. Very few of the men on the entire line but contribute towards the fund. The terms are so easy that the expense is hardly perceptible. All receiving $50 per month or under are required to pay thirty-five cents per month, and all over that amount fifty cents per month. The advantage and necessity of the fund were illustrated in Fort Wayne a short time ago. A young man employed on the Wabash was hurt on the road, and as he was without either home or friends, he would naturally have been thrown on the mercies of a charitable public, had it not been that he was a member of this organization. He went to the company's hospital at Peru, where he was cared for several months. A hundred such cases can be related, and yet a few people object to the hospital.

Hon. O. E. Fleming went to Warsaw this afternoon.

Jacob Martin sues Lottie Martin for a divorce, through S. F. Swayne.

Miss Louise Sylvester appears in "A Hot Time" at the Temple on Friday evening.

John Coppennoll returned from Monroe, Mich., where he attended the funeral of his brother.

Paymaster Fredericksen and his assistant, Mr. Hill, gave gold to the Pittsburg employees this afternoon.

The next attraction is Minnie Maddern, February 27th. The Polk party is divided between the Robinson and Windsor hotels.

Peter Waldschmidt has been discharged from the state insane asylum as incurable and Jane Chapman has again been accepted for treatment.

The county commissioners adjourned yesterday, after destroying all redeemed county orders. Next Monday they meet as gravel road directors, and March 1st in regular session.

The Galesburgs are here in great shape. Geo. Williams and F. R. Fahnestock, rushers; E. J. Daniels, half back; O. L. Ridgely, point, and F. M. Hill, goal tender, will play the famous Princeton team to-night.

Odd Fellows lodge, No. 14 offered $18,000 for the Smallhouse property, adjoining the Avenue house, to erect thereon a magnificent lodge block. Messrs. Miller and Moritz had a bid on the property and Hon. Wm. Fleming, A. C. Trentman and Tony Trentman wanted the ground and are now striving to have Judge O'Rourke set aside the proposed sale by Trustee Keller to the Odd Fellows, as the property is still in court, some of the heirs being minors. Either of the proposed purchasers will build up the block and give $18,000 for it.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT. Annual Meeting to Begin To-day.—The Council of Administration and Women's Relief Corps.

The State Council of Administration held a meeting last night at room 3, Grand hotel, Indianapolis. The meeting was secret, but was chiefly devoted to the auditing of the reports of the officers preparatory to reporting upon them to-day. There are quite a number of candidates for the position of post commander, but while there is a strong feeling on the subject, there is but little said. The candidates, so far as learned, are Gen. Thomas Bennett, of Richmond; D. M. Kinsdale and John A. M. Cox, Indianapolis; John Runyan, Warsaw; George Miller, Terre Haute, and Gil. Stormont, Princeton.

The candidates for vice commander are U. D. Cole, Rushville; Frank Swigert, Logansport, and Andrew File, New Albany.

The Indianapolis posts escorted the visitors to Masonic hall, when Col. D. N. Foster convened the state encampment.

THE LADIES' RELIEF CORPS.

The Ladies' State Relief Corps will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the transaction of business. The election of officers will take place to-morrow. The candidates for the position of president are Mrs. Dr. Siddall, of George H. Chapman Relief corps; Mrs. Dr. G. W. New, of George H. Thomas Relief corps; Mrs. Henley, of the Wabash Relief corps; Mrs. Sue Beals, of Fort Wayne; Mrs. Rosa Slarf and Mrs. C. Robins, of Indianapolis. There are a large number of candidates for the other positions, most of whom are now present. There are now representatives of twenty-two out of thirty relief corps of the state in Indianapolis, making 1,000 in all. A reception was held last night at the Grand hotel parlors, which was quite a feature of the occasion, and which lasted until a late hour.

A NICE PLUM. Mr. Pendleton King is Well Rewarded.

The Washington dispatches to-day note the appointment of Pendleton King, of North Carolina, to be secretary of the American legation at Constantinople. It will be remembered that Mr. King came here during the last campaign and organized quite an independent movement in support of Cleveland and Hendricks. He is a relative of Hon. L. M. Ninde, of this city.

"A Brave Woman." Of Hardy & Von Leer's "A Brave Woman," which follows "Heege's Bad Boy" at the Academy on Thursday evening, the New York World says: "A new piece was presented at the Union Square last night, to a good-sized audience. Mr. Mortimer Murdoch is the author, and he has christened it 'A Brave Woman.' It comes well recommended by English critics, and with much regard to the truth. It is a melo-drama, full of striking tableaux and handsome scenes—in fact, like all its predecessors, scenic effects are expected to perform an important part in its successful presentation."

HIS LETTER. Mason Long Offers $20,000 for the Engine House Property.

Mr. Mason Long, George W. Pixley and others think of erecting a fine hotel on Berry street, east of Calhoun, in order to make their proposed business block on East Berry street desirable. To forward this scheme Mr. Long has sent this proposition to the mayor: To the Honorable Mayor and Council of Fort Wayne:

GENTLEMEN:—Believing that in the near future the city will find it necessary to remove the city prison and fire department from its present unsightly location, I would respectfully offer to the city through your honorable body the sum of twenty thousand dollars for the 56 feet fronting on Court street, on which said city prison and fire engine house now stand; said amount to be paid in cash the moment the city gives possession. Very respectfully yours,

MASON LONG. Mr. Long scarcely expects to buy the city property for $20,000, as it is worth double that amount and constantly growing in value. His object is to open the matter and ascertain what the city wants. He thinks the city should build a $10,000 hall on Barr street, but others believe the city can afford to put more money into an edifice.

SERIOUSLY HURT. The Mother of Deputy Marshal Franke Falls into a Cellar.

Mrs. Franke, mother of Deputy Marshal and Gust Franke, of the water works service, has been the guest of her sons here for several days past. She lives in Madison township and is seventy years of age. Yesterday, while at the home of Gust Franke, on North Clinton street, Mrs. Franke stepped into what she supposed was the clothes room. Instead it was the dark cellar way and the aged woman fell headlong down the stairway, sustaining very severe and may be fatal injuries.

EIGHTEEN YEARS. Tom Fullerton Gets That Term For Shooting John Gashatte.

Tom Fullerton has been on trial this week, at Columbia City, for the murder of John Gashatte. The men were returning from a country dance in Whitley county, some time ago, and got into a quarrel over the trivial tossing of an empty bottle into a bus load of young people. Gashatte administered a severe thrashing to Fullerton, and the latter, under the plea of self-defense, shot his more active antagonist dead. The jury came in last night with a verdict consigning Fullerton to prison for eighteen years. The usual motion for a new trial was made.

"For there was never yet a philosopher that could endure the toothache patiently." Perhaps not, but there's little wit in enduring it at all when one bottle of Salvation Oil will cure it.

Real Estate Transfers. Olds Bros., real estate agents, room No. 8, Foster block, report the following recorded real estate transfers:

OF NO AVAIL. The Nickel Plate Road Ignores the Pool and the Passenger Agents are Warm.

R. F. Kincaid, general ticket agent of the Muncie, and M. S. Philey, joint agent of the Lake Shore road, are at present in Cleveland, where they attended the meeting of general passenger agents. One of the most urgent matters, in view of the trouble with the Indiana, Bloomington and Western, and several other roads, was to induce the Nickel Plate to become a full member, and in order to accomplish this several lengthy conferences were held between a committee of passenger agents, with Commissioner Daniels as chairman, and Receiver Caldwell and General Passenger Agent Horner, of the Nickel Plate. The Nickel Plate officials were urged to bank the fortunes of their road with those of the committee, in view of the spreading dissatisfaction among lines that compete with the Nickel Plate, but it was not satisfactorily shown that the interests of latter road required the immediate consideration of the matter by the company and the only answer the committee received was that the question would be considered hereafter, and that at some future meeting the Nickel Plate might become a member.

SYRACUSE Standard: Roscoe Conkling and Colonel Ingersoll took a walk during the court's recess. They intended to bring up at Louis Windholz's for lunch, but missed the place, and, strolling on in East Washington street, they entered another restaurant, which is one of the cheapest of the cheap. It is so cheap, in fact, that Superintendent of the Poor White sends impecunious individuals to it for meals at the expense of the county. Just after Mr. Conkling and Colonel Ingersoll had sat down and called for oysters, Superintendent White walked in with the most woebegone and altogether wretched tramp that ever set foot in the city. The tramp took a seat at the next table to that used by the distinguished lawyers, and ate a plate of beans, supplemented by a bowl of soup. He gleaned from their conversation who his neighbors were, and as they arose he turned and said: "Gentlemen won't you join me in something?" "I'll join my friend in giving you a quarter," said Ingersoll. "Thanks, gentlemen, thanks! Oh! when shall we three meet again? Senator Conkling and myself may possibly meet in heaven. But as for you, Mr. Ingersoll, ah! who can tell?"

I am thoroughly satisfied with the result of a trial of Athlophoros, as it does all you claim for it. It cured me entirely of rheumatism, and cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers with that terrible disease. C. P. Griffin, a butcher of Stuart, Iowa.

THE FROWN OF A FAT WOMAN. A stout woman should never scowl. A round face, dimpled cheeks, and a double chin will not lend themselves easily to an expression of deep and enduring anger, and it is not ch record that the scowl of a fat woman was ever a success. — Brooklyn Eagle.

Beware of Scrofula. Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself cured." C. E. Lovejoy, Lowell, Mass.

C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum. William Spies, Elyria, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: "I am entirely well."

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

Men Think

they know all about Mustang Liniment. Few do. Not to know is not to have.

REMINISCENCES OF PUBLIC MEN.

BY BENJ. PERLIN POORE.

William P. Duval, who died at Washington while on a visit in Gen. Jackson's last administration, was a genuine backwoodsman, who was the original of Washington Irving's "Ralph Ringwood" and James K. Paulding's "Nimrod Wildfire." When a boy he had gone from his native Virginia to Kentucky, where he became one of the hunters who ranged the forests and lived by their rifles. Studying law, he soon acquired a lucrative practice, and was sent to Congress in 1813. Gen. Jackson appointed him Governor of Florida, and while there he exercised great influence over the Seminole chiefs, whose confidence he gained. From Florida he went to Texas, and it was on business connected with the lands in that State that he came to Washington in his 70th year. His genial humor, his fund of anecdotes, and his spotless integrity made him a favorite among young men, who used to fill his room at night, listening to his spirited accounts of the time when he—to use his own words—"could whip his weight in wildcats."

Senator Tom Benton made a great fuss in the winter of 1884, declaring in his pompous way that Gales & Seaton had suppressed some remarks of his about the Bank of the United States, in their last published volume of the "Register of Debates." In the National Intelligence of the next day, Mr. Gales published a calculation showing that the proportion of the volume, if divided among the forty-eight Senators, would be between twenty-seven and twenty-eight columns to each one. The remarks of Mr. Benton, interspersed through the volume, occupied more than 100 columns, of which more than fifty related to the Bank of the United States, the subject in regard to which the charge of suppression had been made. "Old Bullion," as Mr. Benton was called about the Capitol, never repeated his complaints that his speeches were suppressed by reporters.

Col. John W. Forney was a prominent figure in the Republican party during the first decade of its existence. He was the happy clerk of the Senate, and the unhappy editor of two newspapers, the Chronicle of Washington, and the Press of Philadelphia. When in Washington he was constantly writing letters for the Press, and editorials for the Chronicle. When in Philadelphia he wrote editorials for the Press and letters for the Chronicle. Each paper copied his letters from the other. When in New York he wrote editorial letters for his papers alternately, and they were signed "J. W. F." His Washington letters to the Press and his Philadelphia letters to the Chronicle were signed "Occasional," though the most remarkable thing about them was their regularity. Between his two newspapers the Colonel by no means fell to the ground. He balanced himself like Bloudin, and could ride two tripods as well as John Robinson rode six horses. There was money in it, too, and the Colonel was rosy with good living, and wore such a dainty smile, one could hardly suspect him of ever having done any harm; and he was so perfectly at his ease that he seemed a gentleman of the most elegant leisure, instead of the editor and correspondent-in-chief of two daily newspapers. For a while it was plain sailing, although the Colonel was terribly bothered when there was a row between Stanton and Sherman, but he wrote such handsome things about both belligerents that it was impossible for either to find fault with him. But when Andrew Johnson first quarrelled with the Republican party, he found great trouble in satisfying his friends at the Capitol and at the White House. Finally he deserted the President, who contemptuously alluded to him as a "dead duck" in a public speech. From that day Forney's power began to wane. He sold the Washington Chronicle, which he had established, and then he resigned the secretaryship of the Senate, Congress enacting a bill relieving him from the responsibility of a defalcation by his financial clerk. Some of those whose reputations he had made crashed him coldly, and when the Greeley movement was inaugurated he left the Republican party, which he had done so much to build up, and acted with his old Democratic friends.

Washington profited by the inactivity of the Army of the Potomac, the camps of which were the scenes of frequent reviews and inspections. The blockades of the Potomac by the Confederates remained unbroken, except that now and then a saucy little puny, laden with oysters, dashed past the batteries over which the stars and bars flowed, and brought her precious bivalves to the city market. Many of the officers' wives were in the city, and uniforms were more plentiful than citizens' attire on the sidewalks of Pennsylvania Avenue and at the hotels. The new recruits in trade were generally Republicans, and outspoken in their attachment for the Union, but the "old residents," as they called themselves, either openly sympathized with the Confederates, or displayed an unqualified indifference to the progress and the results of the war, mingled with an undercurrent of insincerity, which was expostulating to the soldiers. When Congress met there was a debate in the Senate on the first day of the session, in which Senator Wilson read a statement, furnished by a detective, on the negroes imprisoned in the jail of the District. There were over sixty, in a filthy condition, without shoes, with insufficient clothing, bedding, or fire, and in a half-starving condition. A majority belonged to rebel masters, from whom they ran away, some because of a threat of being taken to Manassas, some in consequence of ill treatment, some because they would not follow the master to the rebel army; and two or three were from men from Maryland, Minnesota, or Pennsylvania, who accompanied regiments. Political sentiments did not appear. Several were in the employ of the Government at the time of arrest, among them one once belonging to John A. Washington, who declined to go to Manassas to wait upon his master and Col. Lee. One belonged to Toderington, once officer of the Senate, who was a captain in the rebel army, who left his slave there till the end of the war.

A VISIT FROM CAPTAIN KIDD.

Lord John Gardiner one June evening observed a mysterious sloop with six guns riding at anchor off the island. It was Kidd's last vessel, the Antonio. This Lord John was a large, hearty man, who lived generously, was "clever" to the Indians and squaws, and had so much ability in affairs that, although he married four times and spent a great deal of money, he portioned off his daughters handsomely and left a large estate at his death. He was not a person to be scared by a mysterious armed sloop; so, after she had lain in sight two days without making any sign, he put off in a boat, to board her and inquire what she was. As he came up over the side, Captain Kidd—still then unknown to him—received him with the traditional politeness of a thriving desperado, and asked after the health of himself and family. Then, in answer to Lord John's inquiries, he said that he was on his way to Lord Belmont at Boston; would Gardiner do him the favor to carry two negro boys and one negro girl ashore, to be kept there until he returned, or sent an order for them? Gardiner consented, and went back to the island. The next morning Kidd resumed intercourse by sending ashore a request that Gardiner should come on board at once, and bring six sheep with him. This was rather forcing the acquaintance, Gardiner may have thought; but he complied. Thereupon Kidd promptly ripened acquaintance into intimacy, and asked him if he could spare a barrel of cider. Lord John once more proved neighborly, and found that he could spare the cider, sending two of his men ashore to fetch it. While waiting for their return, Kidd got out from his cargo two "pieces" of damaged Bengal muslin, a rare and valued fabric in its pristine state, which he put into a bag, and requested Gardiner to take as a present to his wife. It is likely enough that the captain, seeing in hearty Lord John a capacity for such things, produced some of his fifty-shilling rum, or 300 pound Madeira, to be tasted. Something, at any rate, warmed him up to increased generosity, for in about a quarter of an hour he presented the Lord of the Isle with some muslin for his own use. When the men came back with the barrel of cider, he gave them four pieces of gold for their trouble. Furthermore, after getting ready to sail, he offered to pay for the cider; but Gardiner protested that he was sufficiently rewarded by the present to his wife. They parted at last; and Kidd, gallantly firing a salute of four guns, stood for Block Island.

"His purpose in lingering in these waters was to get rid of his suspicious freight before going to Boston. During his stay near the island two New York sloops took off part of his cargo; and three days later he returned from Block Island in company with another nefarious sloop, which relieved him of chests containing plate and gold and other goods. This time Kidd again sent for Gardiner and committed to his charge a chest, a box of gold, a bundle of quilts, and four halves of goods. The box of gold, as Gardiner afterwards solemnly deposed, was destined by Kidd for Lord Belmont. All the treasure and merchandise was buried in some swampy land near Cherry Harbor, beside Home Pond, within a mile of the manor-house, to be kept for Kidd or his order.

"If I call for it and it is gone," Kidd declared to Lord John, "I will take your head or your son's."—George Parsons Lathrop, in the Century.

POISON IN RED STOCKINGS.

Dr. Edson, of the New York Health Department, has had the dye of some bright red stockings, which were made in Saxony, examined, and the analysis discovered that it contained arsenic and antimony. Both poison the skin, and what is known as antimony rash is produced by underclothing the dye of which is fixed with antimony. Children are the worst sufferers from antimony rash, as they are most likely to wear the bright colors which contain the poison.

In the Dear Old Days.
We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirability of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of this blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard hair article for the hair.

Fruit House Bulletin

Great Reduction in Prices for 1886.

Goods are so low now that it can hardly be expected that there will be any further decline, so that those laying in full supplies will not likely be disappointed.

Coffee Down 2c, Tea Down 10c, Sugars Down 1-2c, Syrups Down 10c, Turkish Prunes Down 1c.

Best Rio Coffee down to 12c a pound; good Rio coffee down to 8c a pound; best Roasted Rio down to 12 1/2c a pound; Government Java, 20c; Roasted Java 20c.

TEAS Reduced in Proportion.

It is no more a luxury to buy Teas. When they were $1 and $2 per pound then of course the consumption of them was small, but now the price is so low that a good Tea can be bought at 25c per pound then they came within the reach of all.

We are enabled to do so at so low a price in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and any direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant which is at least 10 to 20 per pound.

Young Hyson, good, 30c; choice, 35c; best, 40c; Gunpowder, good, 30c; choice, 40c; best, 45c; Oolong, 25c; 20c; 15c; best, 25c; Japan Tea, unopened, 30c; choice, 40c; best, 45c; English Breakfast, good, 25c; choice, 30c per pound.

SUGARS—White and Yellow, Down 1-2c.

Cut Leaf Sugar, 7 1/2c per pound; Powdered Sugar, 7 1/2c; Granulated, 7c; Coffee A, 4 1/2c; Coffee C White, 4c; choice New Orleans Yellow, 5c.

Syrups Reduced 10c a Gal.

Best Golden Drip, 40c per gallon; best Sorghum, 40c per gallon; best New Orleans, Molasses, 30c.

SMOKED MEATS AND PICKLED PORKS.

Best sugar cured hams, 10c per pound; Sugar cured shoulders, 6c per pound; Pickled pork 6c per pound; Breakfast bacon, best, 10c per pound.

SALT AND SMOKED FISH.

White Fish, 15c lb.; White Fish in kits, $1; Family White Fish, kits, 50c; Family White Fish 1/2 lb., $1.25; Mackerel in kits, 60c; good, $1; best, $1.50; Cut Fish, kits, $1; Cut Fish, 1/2 lb., $1; 1/4 lb., $1.

Fish Oil, Lard Oil, Neats Foot Oil, Machine Oils and Head Light

Neats Foot Oil, 80c gallon; Fish Oil, 70c gallon; Headlight oil, 12c gallon; machine Oil dark, 20c gallon; Golden machine oil, 20c gallon.

WINES AND LIQUORS.

Old 75 Whisky for medicinal use, $2.50 per gallon; two-year old, $1.75; one-year old, $1.40; good new whisky, $1.50 and $1 per gallon; California wine, Muscat and Angelica, 40c bottle; Port Wine per gallon, $1.25; gallon Canada wine, $1; gallon Old Tom Gin, 40c; bottle Canada malt, 30c.

Candies Down—Stick and Mixed Reduced 2c per Pound.

Pure Black Candy, 10c per pound; French Mixed Candy, down to 10c; Bon Bons, 20c; Gum Drops, 10c; Imperial and Chocolate down to 10c per pound.

The Greatest Reduction of all is on Turkish Prunes.

Who ever heard of them selling at 40c per pound. The crop is so large that they don't pay freight and a duty to ship to New York. The very best new fruit 4c per pound; new Valencia Prunes, 10c; a pound; Sultana Raisins, 12c; best Log Cabin Syrup, 30c; new dried apricots, 4c per pound; new dried peaches, 5c per pound.

CIGARS, PLUG AND SMOKING TOBACCOS.

Bull Dog plug, 50c; Durham plug, 50c; Perfection plug, 35c; Havanha plug, 30c; Knights of Labor plug, 30c; Six Star plug, 50c per pound. Fine Cut, 50c, 40c, 30c, 20c, 10c per pound. Smoking, 10c, 20c, 30c; best Durham, 40c per pound.

Choice cigars, $1.25 per box; good cigars, 10c and $1 per box.

Whiskey With Most Perfect Oil.

(From the Philadelphia News.)

It is a fact not generally known that there is not a medicine to-day that enters so largely into the practice of the medical profession for the treatment of the sick and debilitated as alcohol in the form of whiskey. There is not an intelligent physician in the country that has not had occasion to prescribe it daily, nor a hospital, infirmary or curative institution that does not keep it constantly on hand as a need. In its pure state it is acknowledged to be the best stimulant, the best curative, and the only cure for consumption, hemorrhages, malaria and dyspepsia. It will no doubt astonish our readers, when informed and sustained by statistics, that nearly one-sixth of all the whiskey sold in this country, at this time, is dispensed by druggists and grocers. So important is alcohol in the treatment of disease that Professor Austin Flint, of the Bellevue Hospital, Medical College, New York (Professor of the Principles and Practice of Medicine), says: "The judicious use of alcoholic stimulants is one of the striking characteristics of progress in the practice of medicine during the last half century." Two ounces of alcohol contain more nutriment than ten ounces of lean meat. It is the only thing that enters the blood direct, without digestive effort of the stomach, and it is, therefore, peculiarly fitted for the week and debilitated. Whiskey has always been recognized by the medical profession as the best form in which to take alcohol, only one objection being urged against it, i. e., the presence of adulteration. The elimination of this deadly poison has for centuries been the cause of more investigation and experiment among scientists and chemists, owing to the important part whiskey plays in the treatment of disease, than any one medicine known to the pharmacopoeia. It was not until within the last decade that the secret of elimination was accidentally discovered in Canada, by old Mr. Duffy, who bequeathed it to his son, who organized the Duffy Malt Whiskey Co. of Baltimore, Md., which company now possess the secret, and it is to-day the discoverer and sole manufacturer in the world of an absolutely pure whiskey. Already famous, it is familiarly known as Duffy's pure malt whiskey, which, aside from being pure, combines a food and stimulant quality.

Messrs. Bill Nye and James Whitecomb Riley have formed a combination, and will make a tour of the country, giving entertainments a la Mark Twain and Mr. Cable. They are now in Indiana.

THE CITY.

"Heege's Bad Boy" closes to-night. The Olds spoke factory is temporarily closed.

Work on the government building has again ceased.

Mrs. Phil. Singleton, who has been quite sick, is much better.

Mrs. Jennie Totten, of Hoagland, is the guest of Miss Mollie Brown.

Hon. W. H. Dills, of Auburn, is the guest of his brother, Dr. T. J. Dills.

The boys have a gallery of comic valentines at the second ward engine house.

Mr. J. Nickell, of Fort Wayne, was at the Arlington house, Richmond, yesterday.

Ed. Tenney, engineer of the Wabash pay car train, is suffering from congestion of the lungs.

Ellis Scaries of this city, went to Huntington this morning. He will remain several days.

Dr. H. S. Myers is the guest of the McKimie house during the absence of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Myers.

The Fort Wayne millers reduced the price of flour 25 cents per barrel in the past week. It is now worth $4.50.

Taylor Wilson, remembered here as a newspaper solicitor, is again at Warsaw, after a two-years' residence in the east.

Miss Clara Sugarman, of Memphis, Tennessee, is in the city, to attend the marriage of her friend, Miss Emma Falk.

At Corvallis the United Brethren church has prohibited its members from joining the G. A. R., as it is styled a secret society.

Congressman Lowry writes here that the bill pensioning Mexican veterans will soon pass the house, probably by the first Monday in March.

A young man named Harry Hamilton, from Altoona, Pa., was taken to the St. Joe hospital yesterday. He is suffering from injuries received by a fall.

Mr. D. F. McCarthy was at Ludington yesterday, en route home from the convent near Terre Haute, where his sister, Miss Ella, is enrolled as a novice.

Rev. George P. Slade is holding an interesting meeting in Portland, Ind. Almost a score united during the first week. He will be home the last of this week.

Rev. H. M. Paynter is having a very successful Bible reading service at Warsaw. The Warsaw Times publishes incidents about the great minister from THE SENTINEL.

The Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railroad has forty truck-walkers on the first and second divisions. Each man traverses six miles of road bed nightly. They will be retained in service until March 1.

Solomon Derome is very sick at his home, No. 82 Barr street. Mr. Derome suffers from inflammation of the abdominal membrane, a disease he contracted in the army. He asks his comrades to call and see him.

"Charles G. Richardson and Miss Julia Blake, the theatrical people, were in the city yesterday afternoon on their way from Newton to Fort Wayne, where they will join another company," says the Decatur, Ill. Review.

A chimney at the residence of Conrad Piepenbrink, on West Washington street, caught fire yesterday, and caused some commotion in the neighborhood, but it was extinguished before any damage was done. The fire department was not notified.

Last evening, at the Princess rink, no less than three unfortunate roller skaters were compelled to leave the floor on account of demoralized garments. Two gentlemen, in their frantic efforts to undo the Russian skater, suffered severe breaches, and one young lady dragged a garment from the floor.

Meats, John Mohr jr. and P. J. Fulton gave a most delightful progressive euchre party last night. The first favors were costly, and Miss Mamie DeWald and Mr. H. C. Gruffs won them. Mrs. Ed. J. Golden and Mr. Murray Hartnett divided the small prizes. A nice luncheon was served after the game at the Fox parlors.

Yesterday members of the Huntertown Erie Insurance company met in the superior court room to consider certain proposed changes in the constitution. It was agreed that initiation fees should be made immediately available in the payment of losses. The company is composed of some of the best farmers in the northern part of the county.

The Academy was filled last night, and there was also a very fair attendance at the matinee this afternoon. Upon both occasions "Heege's Bad Boy." There is nothing to add to what has already been said in these columns further than that the situations seem to get firm or each time one witnesses them. There is not a "stink" in the company, but each member is select for the part assigned him. The last presentation will be given this evening.

Pete Tounellier has sold his Erie variety theatre at Toledo.

Col. R. S. Robertson is sick at his home on West Berry street.

Gathering photographs of dogs and birth cards is the latest craze.

The Fort Wayne Gun club gives a hop at Lindeman's hall Thursday evening.

Mr. A. C. Van Buren, of New York, is lying seriously ill at the Avaline house.

Daniel Tombaugh sues Josiah Tilton for $125. A. H. Bittinger is attorney for the claimant.

James McCrean and Sarah R. Drage, Benjamin A. McKintosh and Emma Kriek have been licensed to wed.

Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Stemen were at Van Wert, last evening, in attendance at the wedding of friends there.

Tom Griffith, a former Fort Wayne boy, is now general foreman in the Pan Handle shops at Logansport.

"At the Front," a sort of panorama of incidents of the late war, will be an attraction at the Temple next week.

"Strathmore," the famous stallion, was put upon the scales last evening, and "tipped the beam" at 1080 pounds.

Tom Lewis, Wm. Robinson and John Berkey were committed to jail by the mayor, for drunkenness, this morning.

Rev. Father Twigg, the new Catholic priest at Arcola, has recovered a gold watch stolen from him at Delphi a long time ago.

The residence of Frank Groetz, at Kendallville, was burned to the ground last night. The loss is $2,000 with no insurance.

Messrs. Foote & O'Connor have purchased 1,400 chairs for the Princess rink, and can now seat 2,000 people at a moment's notice.

Miss Lucy Crosby died of consumption at the corner of Fairfield avenue and Bass street this morning. She will be buried at township expense.

Charles J. Taylor, of St. Paul, Minn., is in the city visiting his family. Mr. Taylor is an old type and now is engaged in the oyster trade at St. Paul.

Ex-Marshal Kelley goes to Monroeville to-morrow to arrest two men charged with cutting hoop poles on property that does not belong to them.

Many of the railroads in the west are placing chime whistles on their passenger locomotives, so they can be distinguished from the engines on freight trains.

Col. F. F. Boltz, Capt. Scott Swann, J. C. Peltier, Charles Thurman, D. S. Redelheimer and Crawford Griswold are attending the G. A. R. encampment at Indianapolis.

Benny Rolape, of East Washington street, has entered the employ of Messrs. Wm. & J. J. Gnaek, the stone cutters, and now handles a chisel like an "old hand at the business."

Mr. Cass Hunter, deputy county treasurer, received notice this morning that he had been awarded a patent on his ingenious "Hunter farm gate." Col. R. S. Robertson is his attorney.

Messrs. D. N. Foster, M. M. Beals, M. Brooks, W. N. Barden, J. E. Graham and F. H. Weldon are the delegates from the St. S. Bass and Anthony Wayne grand army posts to the state encampment of the G. A. R. Woman's relief corps.

The Fort Wayne Electric Light company expect to turn on the light and illuminate the city of Decatur, Illinois, on Saturday evening next. Mr. O'Berne, who is superintending the work, has a full force of men at work, and his energy in carrying out his contract with that city is highly complimented by the Decatur papers.

The polo game between the Mascoties and the Galesburgs, at Lafayette Monday evening, was won by the former by 3 to 2. Time of game, twenty-three minutes. Kende of the Mascoties won three rallies. The game was the best ever played in Lafayette, and people here can see what a treat is in store for them at the Princess rink to-night.

During 1884 there were only 97 deaths in the Indiana G. A. R. department, but last year 157 were reported, and the death rate will be greater during the coming year. Commander Foster is of the opinion that the membership will hardly exceed twenty thousand in this state, owing to this cause. The G. A. R. is the only secret society which will die with the present generation, unless a change is made, like that of the Loyal Legion, so that the eldest son succeeds to the membership of his sire.

A gentleman who knows Col. Thomas A. Scott intimately, tells the Philadelphia Evening News "that one of Mr. Scott's distinguished traits was his ability to pick up promising young men and develop them into able lieutenants, in the managements of the system of railroads that includes the Pittsburgh and Grand Rapids. In this way he picked up Frank Thompson, who is now first vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and Charles B. Pugh, its general manager. Thompson was a gentleman's son who was in the company's shops at Altoona, learning to be a machinist and a railroader. He has made a fine one. Mr. Pugh was a con-ductor on the road."

Jennie Dixon has not yet been tried for keeping a house of ill-fame.

Hon. Montgomery Hamilton and Col. O. A. Munson are at Indianapolis.

The Galesburg Polo club came in from Logansport this morning, and are being entertained at the Fleming House.

Harry Mayell, long in the service of R. W. Bell, of Buffalo, N. Y., is now traveling for the Summit City Soap company.

Mrs. Emma Malloy is at South Bend, from Brookline, Missouri, called there by the very serious illness of her father, Mr. W. L. Barrett.

Mrs. Aaron and Miss Rose Aaron, mother and sister of Dr. Israel Aaron, are in the city, to attend his marriage to the charming Miss Emma Falk.

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance association, of Perry township, met in the old superior court room yesterday, and listened to good reports from the solid local institution.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Warmer, cloudy weather, local snows, falling barometer.

Mr. W. P. Breen is at home from Indianapolis. The Sentinel says: "W. P. Breen, of Fort Wayne, and J. A. McDonald, of Chicago, well and favorably known in this city, are registered at the Grand."

The people of the "Mixed Pickles" party are all clever, and their absurdity is very funny. Mr. Polk is known to Fort Wayne, and THE SENTINEL can heartily recommend his show as clean and enjoyable.

The supreme court has affirmed the decision of Judge O'Rourke in the case of the state vs. Ben F. Heath. Heath was fined for selling liquor under a license granted one Charles Smith. This is a victory for Prosecutor Dawson.

George Parker and James Edwards, the fellows who stole clothes in the east and south part of town, some weeks ago, were arraigned before Judge O'Rourke to-day. They said guilty and were sentenced to one year each in the prison north and fined $1.

The ladies of the Congregational church have decided to give as their next attraction a concert and "Japanese wedding." They have contracted with foreign parties for costumes and music, and the affair will be given in a manner exceeding anything yet attempted in this city.

The person who neglects to see Mr. J. B. Polk as Joseph Pickles, in Dr. Sayre's latest comical dramatic effusion, "Mixed Pickles," at the Temple to-night, will miss the laugh of the season. The comedy is as full of humor, satire, wit and fun as it is possible to crowd into two and a half hours of play.

The congregation of the Wayne street M. E. church propose to erect a Sunday school addition to their house of worship this year. The structure is to be of unique design, after the style of the famous Akron, Ohio school. Its class rooms will be numerous and its appointments most complete and costly.

The revival at the Baptist church continues with greater interest than ever. There is no prospect of the Gospel meeting closing for some time. Services began promptly this evening at 7:30 with a praise meeting by the chorus choir. Railroad men, clerks, book keepers and mechanics are especially interested. There will be a great meeting to-night.

A prominent capitalist remarked to THE SENTINEL representative this morning that there is more idle capital in the Fort Wayne banks now than at any time for fifteen years. "This money," said he, "must find its way to usefulness and in no other channel can it be utilized than in building up the city. I expect to see an unprecedented building season this spring and summer."

"Andrews station did a good business in shipping last week. John Holbrook shipped eight cars of walnut logs to Hoffman Bros., at Fort Wayne; S. Bellman & Son, one car of hogs in care of Lew H. Bellman, to Indianapolis; Jacob B. Hull, one car of hard lumber to H. V. Root, at Fort Wayne; Harry Stell, two cars of hauled hay to eastern Pennsylvania; P. H. Willea & Son, 4,000 pounds of feed to Fort Wayne, and Charles McNam, a half car load of furniture to Roanoke," says a correspondent of the Huntington Herald.

The hospital fund, as managed by the Wabash company, has proved a success. Very few of the men on the entire line but contribute towards the fund. The terms are so easy that the expense is hardly perceptible. All receiving $50 per month or under are required to pay thirty-five cents per month, and all over that amount fifty cents per month. The advantage and necessity of the fund were illustrated in Fort Wayne a short time ago. A young man employed on the Wabash was hurt on the road, and as he was without either home or friends, he would naturally have been thrown on the mercies of a charitable public, had it not been that he was a member of this organization. He went to the company's hospital at Peru, where he was cared for for several months. A hundred such cases can be related, and yet a few people object to the hospital.

Hon. O. E. Fleming went to Warsaw this afternoon.

Jacob Martin sues Lottie Martin for a divorce, through S. F. Swayne.

Miss Louise Sylvester appears in "A Hot Time" at the Temple on Friday evening.

John Coppennell returned from Monroe, Mich., where he attended the funeral of his brother.

Paymaster Fredericksen and his assistant, Mr. Hull, gave gold to the Pittsburg employees this afternoon.

The next attraction is Minnie Maddern, February 27th. The Polk party is divided between the Robinson and Windsor hotels.

Peter Waldechmidt has been discharged from the state insane asylum as incurable and Jane Chapman has again been accepted for treatment.

The county commissioners adjourned yesterday, after destroying all redeemed county orders. Next Monday they meet as gravel road directors, and March 1st in regular session.

The Galesburgs are here in great shape. Geo. Williams and F. R. Fahnestock, rushers; E. J. Daniels, half back; O. L. Ridgely, point, and F. M. Hill, goal tender, will play the famous Princess team to-night.

Odd Fellows lodge, No. 14 offered $18,000 for the Smallhouse property, adjoining the Avenue house, to erect thereon a magnificent lodge block. Messrs. Miller and Moritz had a bid on the property and Hon. Wm. Fleming, A. C. Treutman and Tony Treutman wanted the ground and are now striving to have Judge O'Rourke set aside the proposed sale by Trustee Keller to the Odd Fellows, as the property is still in court, some of the heirs being minors. Either of the proposed purchasers will build up the block and give $18,000 for it.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Annual Meeting to Begin To-day—The Council of Administration and Women's Relief Corps.

The State Council of Administration held a meeting last night at room 3, Grand hotel, Indianapolis. The meeting was secret, but was chiefly devoted to the auditing of the reports of the officers preparatory to reporting upon them to-day.

There are quite a number of candidates for the position of post commander, but while there is a strong feeling on the subject, there is but little said. The candidates, so far as learned, are Gen. Thomas Bennett, of Richmond; D. M. Knudsen and John A. M. Cox, Indianapolis; John Runyan, Warsaw; George Miller, Terre Haute, and Gil. Stormont, Princeton.

The candidates for vice commander are U. D. Cole, Rushville; Frank Swigart, Logansport, and Andrew File, New Albany.

The Indianapolis posts escorted the visitors to Masonic hall, when Col. D. N. Foster convened the state encampment.

THE LADIES' RELIEF CORPS.

The Ladies' State Relief Corps will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the transaction of business. The election of officers will take place to-morrow. The candidates for the position of president are Mrs. Dr. Siddall, of George H. Chapman Relief corps; Mrs. Dr. G. W. Now, of George H. Thomas Relief corps; Mrs. Henley, of the Wabash Relief corps; Mrs. Sue Beale, of Fort Wayne; Mrs. Ross Shart and Mrs. C. Robbins, of Indianapolis. There are a large number of candidates for the other positions, most of whom are now present. There are now representatives of twenty-two out of thirty relief corps of the state in Indianapolis, making 1,000 in all. A reception was held last night at the Grand hotel parlors, which was quite a feature of the occasion, and which lasted until a late hour.

A lady asked a gentleman his age. He replied: "What you do in everything, X. L." So does Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein excel over all other medicine for coughs, croup and consumption.

A NICE PLUM.

Mr. Pendleton King is Well Rewarded.

The Washington dispatches to-day note the appointment of Pendleton King, of North Carolina, to be secretary of the American legation at Constantinople. It will be remembered that Mr. King came here during the last campaign and organized quite an independent movement in support of Cleveland and Hendricks. He is a relative of Hon. L. M. Niude, of this city.

"A Brave Woman."

Of Hardy & Von Leer's "A Brave Woman," which follows "Heege's Bad Boy" at the Academy on Thursday evening, the New York World says: "A new piece was presented at the Union Square last night, to a good-sized audience. Mr. Mortimer Murdoch is the author, and he has christened it 'A Brave Woman.' It comes well recommended by English critics, and with much regard to the truth. It is a melo-drama, full of striking tableaux and handsome scenes—in fact, like all its predecessors, scenic effects are expected to perform an important part in its successful presentation."

HIS LETTER.

Mason Long Offers $20,000 for the Engine House Property.

Mr. Mason Long, George W. Pixley and others think of erecting a fine hotel on Berry street, east of Calhoun, in order to make their proposed business block on East Berry street desirable. To forward this scheme Mr. Long has sent this proposition to the mayor: To the Honorable Mayor and Council of Fort Wayne:

GENTLEMEN:—Believing that in the near future the city will find it necessary to remove the city prison and fire department from its present unsightly location, I would respectfully offer to the city through your honorable body the sum of twenty thousand dollars for the 56 feet fronting on Court street, on which said city prison and fire engine house now stand; said amount to be paid in cash the moment the city gives possession. Very respectfully yours, Mason Long.

Mr. Long scarcely expects to buy the city property for $20,000, as it is worth double that amount and constantly growing in value. His object is to open the matter and ascertain what the city wants. He thinks the city should build a $10,000 hall on Barr street, but others believe the city can afford to put more money into an edifice.

SERIOUSLY HURT.

The Mother of Deputy Marshal Franke Falls into a Cellar.

Mrs. Franke, mother of Deputy Marshal and Gust Franke, of the water works service, has been the guest of her sons here for several days past. She lives in Madison township and is seventy years of age. Yesterday, while at the home of Gust Franke, on North Clinton street, Mrs. Franke stepped into what she supposed was the clothes room. Instead it was the dark cellar way and the aged woman fell headlong down the stairway, sustaining very severe and may be fatal injuries.

EIGHTEEN YEARS.

Tom Fullerton Gets That Term For Shooting John Gashatte.

Tom Fullerton has been on trial this week, at Columbia City, for the murder of John Gashatte. The men were returning from a country dance in Whitley county, some time ago, and got into a quarrel over the trivial tossing of an empty bottle into a bus load of young people. Gashatte administered a severe thrashing to Fullerton, and the latter, under the plea of self-defense, shot his more active antagonist dead. The jury came in last night with a verdict consigning Fullerton to prison for eighteen years. The usual motion for a new trial was made.

"For there was never yet a philosopher that could endure the toothache patiently." Perhaps not, but there's little wit in enduring it at all when one bottle of Salvation Oil will cure it.

Middles.

A lady asked a gentleman his age. He replied: "What you do in everything, X. L." So does Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein excel over all other medicine for coughs, croup and consumption.

Speak only two letters, and thus name the destiny of all earthly things. D. K. But many have died too early from a neglected cough or cold. If they had taken Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein a long life would have ensued.

OF NO AVAIL.

The Nickel Plate Road Ignores the Pool and the Passenger Agents are Warm.

R. F. Kinnaird, general ticket agent of the Muncie, and M. S. Philley, joint agent of the Lake Shore road, are at present in Cleveland, where they attended the meeting of general passenger agents. One of the most urgent matters, in view of the trouble with the Indiana, Bloomington and Western, and several other roads, was to induce the Nickel Plate to become a full member, and in order to accomplish this several lengthy conferences were held between a committee of passenger agents, with Commissioner Daniels as chairman, and Receiver Caldwell and General Passenger Agent Horner, of the Nickel Plate. The Nickel Plate officials were urged to bank the fortresses of their road with those of the committee, in view of the spreading dissatisfaction among lines that compete with the Nickel Plate, but it was not satisfactorily shown that the interests of latter road required the immediate consideration of the matter by the company and the only answer the committee received was that the question would be considered hereafter, and that at some future meeting the Nickel Plate might become a member.

Mr. W. H. Shambaugh was at Monroeville this afternoon.

STRAUGHAN Standard: Roscoe Conkling and Colonel Ingersoll took a walk during the court's recess. They intended to bring up at Louis Windholz's for lunch, but missed the place, and, strolling on in East Washington street, they entered another restaurant, which is one of the cheapest of the cheap. It is so cheap, in fact, that Superintendent of the Poor White sends impetuous individuals to it for meals at the expense of the county. Just after Mr. Conkling and Colonel Ingersoll had sat down and called for oysters, Superintendent White walked in with the most woebegone and altogether wretched tramp that ever set foot in the city. The tramp took a seat at the next table to that used by the distinguished lawyers, and ate a plate of beans, supplemented by a bowl of soup. He gleaned from their conversation who his neighbors were, and as they arose he turned and said: "Gentlemen won't you join me in something?" "I'll join my friend in giving you a quarter," said Ingersoll. "Thanks, gentlemen, thanks! Oh! when shall we three meet again? Senator Conkling and myself may possibly meet in heaven. But as for you, Mr. Ingersoll, ah! who can tell?"

I am thoroughly satisfied with the result of a trial of Athlophores, as it does all you claim for it. It cured me entirely of rheumatism, and cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers with that terrible disease. O. P. Griffin, a butcher of Stuart, Iowa.

THE CROWN OF A FAT WOMAN.

A stout woman should never scowl. A round face, dimpled cheeks, and a double chin will not lend themselves easily to an expression of deep and enduring anger, and it is not on record that the scowl of a fat woman was ever a success.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself cured." C. E. LOVELL, Lowell, Mass.

C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

William Spies, Elyria, O., suffered greatly from ophthalmia and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: "I am entirely well."

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. R. STANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.
